Summary

A very short story with the D.I.V.A.

Alissa and Victoria are together. The android has a request that she considers strange for the butterfly woman.

I'm Diana, D.I.V.A.'s leader. Today, in the Star Diva, I come across Alissa and Victoria. The android has a request that she considers strange for the butterfly woman.

"Ask." Simply say Victoria.

"Can I touch your wings?" Asks Alissa.

"Huh?"

"Is it inappropriate?"

"No. It's just that no one among the D.I.V.A. has asked me before. Go ahead."

"Okay."

Alissa touches Victoria's wings, but with surprising gentleness, as if afraid of tearing them. Victoria notices and is frustrated.

"Come on, you can pull a little, they're not THAT fragile!"

"All right."

Alissa pulls a little on the wings. They stretch easily.

"That's... interesting." Alissa says. "I'm going to have a lot of data to analyze."

"Don't exaggerate!" Says Victoria, who now seems a little angry.
"They're just wings!"

"If you say so." I say.

Just then, Victoria and Alissa notice my presence. Alissa removes her hands from Victoria's wings.

"Diana, do you need anything?" Victoria asks.

"I'm ready to assist you." Says Alissa.

"No, no, I don't need anything." I say as I walk away.

I smile. I'm sure if Iliana were here, she'd tell me there are always interesting things going on with us. Iliana went on a solo mission.
